Is Masonry your profession?

Masonry has many meanings and purposes to our Brothers. For some, the simple experience of becoming a Mason and counted as an accepted member of this honorable organization is the capstone of their desire. Still others take pleasure in teaching the history, meaning and purpose of our Great Organization to those that seek further Light. And for some Brothers, involvement — to whatever degree — gives them pleasure.

Certainly Masonry has many meanings, many purposes for all of us. The occasion for fraternity and Brotherly love. A chance to be charitable to the needy. The opportunity to improve the life of another. In this coming year, let us guide those who desire admission, serving as a faithful and trusted Companion. Let us teach those willing to learn, so that they might do the same for another. And let us participate and lead those who look to us, so that they might follow in our footsteps and later seek our counsel.

We need directive purpose in our striving and endeavors for successful living. We need to be both sensitive and responsive to the needs of others. We need the vision and then to strive to attain great goals in living. The doctrines and brotherhood of Masonry furnish guidance, inspiration and assurance for those who conscientiously seek its truths and live in accordance with its precepts. The organized and unified effort and work of the members of our Craft produced wonderful accomplishments in its benevolences and charities, which would be utterly impossible if left to individual effort and action. The strong bonds of brotherhood are strengthened and become meaningful in this good work.

The appeal and call of Freemasonry has ever been in its effective techniques of building character. Masonic law requires that only those of good moral character and possessing an un-qualified belief in a Supreme Being may be admitted to membership. Contrary to most other organizations, membership cannot be directly solicited and new members are motivated to petition for Masonry by the excellent reputation our Fraternity and its members enjoy. This is a fine compliment to Masonry and is one of those attributes which make it unique.

From the Chaplain – PM Omar’an Lee

Direction: Which way to go?

Brothers we are taught to travel towards the east. In search of more light in masonry, and that light is an understanding of God. It is my prayer that we seek God's direction for our lives. In order to do that we have to refrain from sometimes looking to our own understanding. God commands us to lean not to our own understanding, but acknowledge him in all our ways and He will give direction to our paths. Following in God's direction will grant us the desires of our heart.

So brothers I admonished you, that when you rise early in the morning take a few moments to acknowledge God as were told before any great undertaking to first evoke the aid of Deity. Let this not just be a lesson in rhetoric, but a praxis that we implore daily! If we just sit for a moment with the Lord in silence as we pray he will reveal to us what his plan and will for our lives. It will happen in a still whisper, a loud cry, a sign or event, even another whom God has sent to proclaim His word to us.

May God bless you, may God keep you, may God make his face to shine upon you, and bless be to the most high God.
